One Year, in advance.

INCREASE IN NUMEBR OF VEHICLES ADDS DANGE

Roads indicate that there are now more than 65,000,000 vehicles registered in this country. This means a net gain for 1956 of approximately 3,000,000 more vehicles on the roads today than in 1955. And, if the trend continues, we can expect 80,000,000 in 1966, and over 100,000,000 crowding the roads by 1975. What do these figures mean to you as a

Well, for one thing-if you think the traffic accident toll is terrible now, just wait till the above predictions become realities. Try to visualize 50,000 to 75,000 vehicle deaths each

The overall traffic problem must be attacked on all fronts, with stepped-up engineering, education and enforcement. However, for four purposes here, let's look at what just one of the phases offers as a partial solution and how we stand—that of education.

High school driver education extends one of the most promising weapons in the battle prevent traffic accidents; it offers a sound servation program of human resources. urveys reveal how young drivers who have eived classroom and practice driving inaction such as provided at Hamlin High ol, have less than half as many accidents d violations as those young drivers who ve had no formal training. In Connecticut, example, the commissioner of motor vehis reported last November that only one per t of their trained young drivers were inlved in accidents in the preceding year, Il ompared to nine per cent of non-trained driv-

Texas, according to records of the Texas Safety Association, falls far behind many states, but some headway is being made. During the 1955-56 school year our secondary schools trained nearly 23 083 youngsters to be better, thus safer drivers, in our state. Insur- tions so far are favorable.

Figures released by the Bureau of Public | ance companies have been quick to see the advantages of such a program and have reduced insurance rates by 10 per cent to those who have completed approved driver training courses.

> Where do the educators stand. A survey made this past summer by the TSA shows that principals and superintendents are overwhelmingly in favor of an expanded driver edication program. Generally, they believed it should begin in the niath grade.

But, many roadblocks prevent the expansion of high school driver education, the most serious of which are the costs to the schools, fitting the course into an already crowded curriculum and a shortage of properly trained teachers. These obstacles are emphasized by the fact that in spite of a growing public understanding, only 11.5 per cent of Texas' eligible students receive a complete course; one including both classroom and prctice driving instruction—the need is obvious.

As has been indicated, the driver training program has not been without some support To be more specific, new car dealers have made outstanding contributions to the program by making driver training cars available to schools on a loan basis or by offeri them at greatly reduced rates. They stand ber of the Texas Highway Comready to do more.

Still others have contributed areatly to the promotion of driver education. The Texas Safety Association under its current president, E. C. McFadden of Dallas, and its general manager, J. O. Musick of Austin, has worked diligently in encouraging driver education programs in high school, through seminars in colleges and universities, and public conferences. At present TSA is seeking the support of legislators in making the facilities for driver education available to our secondary schools under the Gilmer-Aikin bill. Indica-

For $210 a Year

How much does medical care cost the average American family? That question, asked at random, would provoke a wide gamut of answers. A good many people, who haven't had an opportunity to get the facts, obviously believe that this cost is very heavy.

The Health Information Foundation of New York City has looked into the matter. It found that the average family medical bill runs to about $210 a year. Only 16 per cent of famities spent more than $400.

The average family, as we all know, spends substantially larger sums for luxuries and entertainment and in other ways that are fun but not essential. And today's medical care dollar, due to medical progress, brings back a tremendous return. New drugs and techniques produce cures where cures were rare or impossible in past itmes. They have greatly reduced the time that people must spend recuperating from illness. It's a real saving when a man can return to his work in a matter of days, instead of weeks or months.

Complaints about medical care costs are easy enough to understand—they are inevitable, human nature being what it is. No one likes to go to the doctor-we go only when we must. We'd much rather spend the money on all manner of other things. That attitude is universal. But it should not be allowed to warp the truth-and to blow up the medical care financial problem out of all semblance to reality.

Cheerfulness Is Priceless

Cheerfulness has a dual value in life. First, it helps you, then it helps to help others—and it keeps on spreading out into the great throng of humanity, stirring the hearts of men as the gentle breeze stirs the leaves of the forest, returning to you its endless course.

And all the while it makes the heavy load lighter and the dark road brighter for all.

The Car Buying Picture

Those who set out to purchase a new car in 1957 may find that they will be forced to wind up with a smaller, lower priced car than Foreign Wars voted to sponsor a they had intended to buy, according to the editors of a leading magazine.

The reasons: Interest rates are high for car financing; down payments will be stiffer; borrowers may have to repay loans faster in bigger instalments; and finally, lenders are choosier about how much they will lend and to whom.

And, car prices are the highest in history, with price increases as much as $80 to $180 over last year's levels in the low priced cars. This combination of high prices and tough finamcing will force many buyers into the lower priced standard models.

Editorial of the Week

IS NOBODY CONCERNED?

It appears that Texans are not really interested in polio vaccinations after all. Over 20 years of campaigning and billions of research money finally comes up with a successful antidote for the crippler. Perhaps people are just that way. To make a big whoop-dedo about the current rave or reform then settle back into complacency to await the next turn of the merry-go-round may be one of the blind spots in the make-up of Americans.

At any rate, Texans are reacting in that matter at the moment. Now that there is plenty of polio vaccine for everybody, it is a fact, health authorities say, that slightly over 10 per cent of the Texas population under 20 years of age has received the full course of

Blue panic should be planted in regular width rows. There are two methods of planting: 1. Plant on surface of the soil with intention of getting it up on the first rain. It should be kept in mind that the crust will have to be through. 2. To get it up on moisture, plant at same depth as any other row crop. Uncover the seed

Larger Supplies of Cattle on Markets Tends to Weaken Prices This Week

Worth this week to weaker bids from most interests in view of somewhat larger supplies. However, only a few sales were definitely weaker in view of moderate supplies and stronger prices at dy, special market reporter for The Herald, in his weekly release,

Since the recent rains in much of the territory most cattle and calf prices had moved up sharply to position in many cases higher grade for grade than at Northern punts, and the trade Monday fortured efforts of major buyers to try and work the list back into plts sold from $19 down; No. 2 focus with other parts of the coun-were again active and fully steady. Comparative prices: Good and choice slaughter steers and yearlings, $17 to $21, the top for a lot from the Spur Experiment Station. Common and me dium offerings sold from $12 to $17. Fat cows drew $10 to $13.50 and canners and cutters cashed at $8 to $12.50. Bulls sold from $10 to $14.50. Good and choice slaughter calves cleared at $17 to $20 common and medium sorts sold at $14 to $16.50. Culls cashed at $10 to $13. Good and choice stocker steer calves brought $18 to $21, and good and choice stocker steer yearlings sold at $17 to $19.50. Replacement cows drew $9 to $14.

Reports reaching Fort Worth this week indicate that in most sections of the Central Texas, East Texas and North Texas areas the recent rains have developed grain field grazing amazingly fast and cattle and calves on these fields are putting on big gains. Some difficulty with bloat has been reported in some areas due to the lush growth.

Visitors to the market report that, in view of the good gains in recent weeks, a good portion of the calves and yearlings will be carrying considerable flesh when taken off these fields around the middle of March. Some areas report red spider and green bugs making inroads on prospective grain crops

Many of these cattle reportedly will carry enough flesh to take a short stay in the feed lot and come out as fat cattle. This situation has focussed the attenion of feed lot buyers on the special move-off at the Fort Worth market March 15. Buyers from Western states in these "near fat" kinds of cattle for placement in feed lots there.

Cattle trade opened at Fort | day represented the largest offerings since January there. Trade opened slowly, as packer interests sought lower prices following the recent sharp advances. However strong demand was uncovered in northern points, declares Ted Goul- lets and the trade soon developed strong to 50 cents higher on feedtopped at $20 to $20.50, the latfeeder lambs. Older sheep were very scarce, fully steady.

Good and choice slaughter lambs in the wool sold from $19.50 to $20.50 down; fall shorn and No. 1 skin lambs, $18.50 down; No. 3 skins, $18.25 down; and reently shorns, $17 down; cull to medium killers, $12 to $17.

Stocker and feeder lambs sold at $17 to $20.50, choice shearing lambs at $20.50, and most offerings from $20 down. Slaughter ewes drew $6 to $8.50; old wethers, $12 down; yearlings, $16 down; aged bucks, $6 down.

Butcher hogs sold mostly steady with last week's close at Fort Worth Monday, as choice meat type hogs scored $17.25 and $17.50. Sows at $15.75 were also steady with last week's close. Medium grades and lighter weights sold from $14 to $16.50. Stags drew

Despite a moderate offering at Northern points Monday the trade showed little rallying power on live hogs at any point in view of continued rater lack-luster wholesale meat quotations from major

Your task is simplified if you use the standard deduction. You get the benefit of non-business deductions without the possible burden of having to prove you are entitled to deductions you itemize.

The tax table on page 16 of the instructions, which may be used only for adjusted gross incomes of less than $5,000, gives credit for the 10 per cent standard deduction automatically. The deductions for those with income of $5,000 or more is 10 per cent of the adjusted gross income, but not in excess of $1,000.

If you decide to itemize your personal expenses on page two of Form 1040, here are some of the items you may deduct from your adjusted gross income:

Contributions.-You can deduct gifts to religious, charitable, educational, scientific or literary groups or non-profit organizations. In general, these deductions may not exceed 20 per cent of your adjusted gross income.

Interest.-You can deduct interest paid on personal debts, such as bank loans or on your home mortgage, including - within certain limits-interest often disguised as "handling charges" in installment payment contracts.

One Year, in advance

Figures released by the Bureau of Public Roads indicate that there are now more than 65,000,000 vehicles registered in this country mately 3,000,000 more vehicles on the roads tinues, we can expect 80,000,000 in 1986, and over 100,000,000 crowding the roads by 1975.

What do these figures mean to you as a Well, for one thing-if you think the traffic | it should begin in the math grade.

accident toll is terrible now, just wait till the above predictions become realities. Try to visualize 50,000 to 75,000 vehicle deaths each

The overall traffic problem must be attacked on all fronts, with stepped-up engineering, education and enforcement. However, for our purposes here, let's look at what just one of the phases offers as a partial solution and how we stand—that of education.

High school driver education extends one If the most promising weapons in the battle prevent traffic accidents; it offers a sound servation program of human resources.

urveys reveal how young drivers who have rived classroom and practice driving inction such as provided at Hamlin High l, have less than half as many accidents d violations as those young drivers who ve had no formal training. In Connecticut example, the commissioner of motor vehis reported last November that only one per olved in accidents in the preceding year, Dompared to nine per cent of non-trained driv-

Where do the educators stand. A survey made this past summer by the TSA show that principals and superintendents are overwhelmingly in favor of an expanded driver edication program. Generally, they believed

But, many roadblocks prevent the expansion of high school driver education, the most serious of which are the costs to the schools, fitting the course into an already crowded curriculum and a shortage of properly trained teachers. These obstacles are emphasized by the fact that in spite of a growing public understanding, only 11.5 per cent of Texas' eligible students receive a complete course; one including both classroom and pretice driving instruction—the need is obvious.

As has been indicated, the driver training program has not been without some support To be more specific, new car dealers have made outstanding contributions to the program by making driver training cars available to schools on a loan basis or by offeri them at greatly reduced rates. They stand ber of the Texas Highway Comready to do more.

Still others have contributed greatly to the promotion of driver education. The Texas Safety Association under its current president, E. C. McFadden of Dallas, and its general manager, J. O. #### For $210 a Year

How much does medical care cost the average American family? That question, asked at random, would provoke a wide gamut of answers. A good many people, who haven't had an opportunity to get the facts, obviously believe that this cost is very heavy.

The Health Information Foundation of New York City has looked into the matter. It found that the average family medical bill runs to about $210 a year. Only 16 per cent of famities spent more than $400.

The average family, as we all know, spends substantially larger sums for luxuries and entertainment and in other ways that are fun but not essential. And today's medical care dollar, due to medical progress, brings back a tremendous return. New drugs and techniques produce cures where cures were rare or impossible in past itmes. They have greatly reduced the time that people must spend recuperating from illness. It's a real saving when a man can return to his work in a matter of days, instead of weeks or months.

Complaints about medical care costs are easy enough to understand—they are inevitable, human nature being what it is. No one likes to go to the doctor-we go only when we must. We'd much rather spend the money on all manner of other things. That attitude is universal. But it should not be allowed to warp the truth-and to blow up the medical care financial problem out of all semblance to reality.

Cheerfulness Is Priceless

Cheerfulness as a dual value in life. First, it helps you, then it helps to help others—and It keeps on spreading out into the great throng of humanity, stirring the hearts of men as the gentle breeze stirs the leaves of the forest, returning to you its endless course.

And all the while it makes the heavy load lighter and the dark road brighter for all.

The Car Buying Picture

Those who set out to purchase a new car in 1957 may find that they will be forced to wind up with a smaller, lower priced car than they had intended to buy, according to the editors of a leading magazine.

The reasons: Interest rates are high for car financing; down payments will be stiffer; borrowers may have to repay loans faster in bigger instalments; and finally, lenders are choosier about how much they will lend and

And, car prices are the highest in history, with price increases as much as $80 to $180 over last year's levels in the low priced cars. This combination of high prices and tough financing will force many buyers into the lower priced standard models.

Editorial of the Week

IS NOBODY CONCERNED?

It appears that Texans are not really interested in polio vaccinations after all. Over 20 years of campaigning and billions of research money finally comes up with a successful antidote for the crippler. Perhaps people are just that way. To make a big whoop-dedo about the current rave or reform then settle back into complacency to await the next turn of the merry-go-round may be one of the blind spots in the make-up of Americans.

At any rate, Texans are reacting in that matter at the moment. Now that there is plenty of polio vaccine for everybody, it is a fact, health authorities say, that slightly over 10 per cent of the Texas population under 20 years of age has received the full course of

in a series of articles on your duction of not more than $500 on income tax. The articles deal with the various tax forms, exemptions how to compute your deductions how to exclude sick pay from taxable income, and how to avoid errors in filing your tax return One article is appearing each Clip and save them for ready reference when you fill out

The federal income tax law allows you to reduce your taxable income by contributions you make to churches or charity and by the certain taxes, large medical and dental costs and certain other per-

If you have determined the amount of your adjusted gross income you are ready to decide whether you should take the 10 per cent standard deduction allowed for personal expenses or whether you should itemize them on page two of Form 1040.

The importance of adjusted gross income as a factor in determining emphasized. It is the basic figure for straight salary or wages and you do not have exclusions for sick holding your job, your gross income and your adjusted gross income usually will be the same.

So, if you have this figure worked out on line 11 of Form 1040, you you may take as allowed by law. These deductions are described on pages eight, nine and 10 of your Form 1040 instructions.

After you have listed and totalled the deductions to which you feel you are entitled, then you can compare this total with the amoun you would be allowed by taking the standard deduction. The total may exceed the allowance you will get by taking the standard deduc
